Parties wishing to attend the Hazel Green Academy can board at $2.00 per week in town and for $1.75 per week in the suburbs.

W. Jackson Wallace, formerly from Stillwater, in this county, is now a citizen of our town.

H. Clay Herndon will today begin dressing the lumber for the seats in the Presbyterian Church. The buzz saw don't scare him worth a cent.

Hon. J. Moore Kash has just returned from a business visit to Hazard, in Perry county. He says Judge Finley, as usual was absent.

Rev. W. Leuchter Stanger, now at Vanceburg, has been quite sick for sometime, and gives this as a reason for his not writing to his friends in this section.

Mrs. Lou E. Mize, wife of W. Oldham Mize, of this place, who has been on the sick list for several days, is still confined to her home with rheumatism.

D. Sanders Godsey, our affable representative will leave in a few days for Frankfort, and we shall expect to see him among the foremost in offering local bills.

J. Atmore Kendall, who brought in the mail on Monday in place of the steamer Kemp, reports a number one tide in the Licking, and thought a good many rats would go out.

A Frank Johnson got his sack swamped of the mill the other day for one branded "J. N." He says he wouldn't mind the swap if J. N. had furnished some soap to wash his sack.

W. Harrison Vandorbill, the richest man in the world, died at his residence in New York on the 10th inst. As his will has not been admitted to probate, we do not know whether he left anything for THE HERALD man or not.

A lady in this town has a kitten with a red string tied around its neck for a pet. A few days since, while she was at dinner, the kitten caught a mouse. She released the mouse, and whipped the kitten for murdering it.

S. Xenophon Swimm, and his sisters, the Misses Swimm, have opened a boarding house here to accommodate students from Prof. N. Bonaparte Hay's school. The boarding house will be connected by plank walk with the academy.

Rev. Mr. Williamson, a North Carolinian by birth, but a resident of Lebanon, Ky., has been assigned to the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church at this place, and will be in time to hold service at the next regular meeting.

A healthy body is indispensable to a vigorous mind. A bilious and dyspeptic man, whose blood drops sluggishly in his veins, can neither think clearly nor act wisely. Ayer's Pills will stir up the liver, excite the stomach and bowels to activity, open the pores of the system, renovate the blood, and restore a healthy temperament for the mind.

H. Chap Swango, who has been on a protracted visit to relatives and friends in Edgar and Cole counties, Illinois, has just returned home, and was delighted with his visit. He says the people of that section think THE HERALD is long and the best paper in Eastern Kentucky, and that the few who formerly lived here, and who do not now take it, will order it soon.

FIGHT FOR LIFE.

DEPUTY MARSHAL DAY'S DEADLY STRUGGLE WITH A DESPERATE PRISONER.

The Officer Wrests the Pistol From His Hand and Mortally Wounds Him.

[Special to the Courier-Journal.]

Covington, Dec. 10.—There was a scene of unprecedented excitement in this usually quiet precinct of the United States building, in Covington, this afternoon, when the hour came for the adjournment of the United States Court in session there at present. Ed. Onell, one of the prisoners awaiting trial, seeing that he supposed a favorable moment for escape, made a bold break for liberty, but was shot and mortally wounded by Special Bailiff W. T. Day.

The United States court-room is located on the third floor of the building, and is on the west side of a long corridor which runs between the United States Marshal's office and the other offices on the east. The Marshal's office was the place where the fatal affray occurred. Onell was awaiting trial on the charge of passing counterfeit money and on the expectation that his case would be called during the afternoon proceedings Onell had been taken from the Covington jail and brought to the Marshal's office, where he remained locked up by himself for nearly three-quarters of an hour. During this time he occupied himself in going over the charge of passing counterfeit money and his contents. In one he found a small heap of very dry tobacco, finely cut up, and in another a No. 44 Smith & Wesson revolver. This discovery seemed to have suggested to him the idea of making his escape. He ground up the tobacco as fine as could be done, and had the revolver in readiness when Bailiff Day came to unlock the door and take him back to jail. As he entered Onell threw a handful of the finely powdered tobacco square in his eyes, almost blinding him. The officer, though surprised for a moment, was not disconcerted, and, rushing toward the door, placed himself in it so as to prevent the prisoner from escaping.

Day then fired the revolver. Day saw him making the movement and rushed on him in time to strike up his arm. The ball lodged in the side of the room. The men grappled and passed through a doorway into the main corridor, when the revolver again fired. Mr. Chas. Gray rushed into the Marshal's office, where the disturbance proceeded, to find both Day and Onell on the floor. The former in the act of rising, the latter lying on his back and groaning with pain. Both showed signs of the desperate encounter. Day's eyes were smarting with pain, and he was hurried to a drug store for relief. He stated that when he clinched with Onell, after the latter's firing, he succeeded in throwing him to the floor, he himself falling on him. Onell still held the pistol in his hand, but he managed to get hold of it, though Onell still clutched the barrel of the weapon, and the two were thus situated, Onell still struggling desperately when the second shot was fired. Mr. Gray, who assisted Onell to a position of rest, as he did so, found the bullet, which had passed clean through the man's body and lodged in the lining of his coat.

Dr. Wise made an examination of the wound at once. He found that the bullet entered the right side, between the sixth and seventh ribs, passed through, coming out on the left side, fracturing the sixth rib immediately above the diaphragm which it is supposed was torn. It passed through the lungs. Onell remained completely unconscious for about a quarter of an hour, and then suffered a collapse, after which he was semi-conscious only at intervals. He had nothing to say concerning the affair. Dr. Wise administered anodynes, which relieved the man's agony. He was sinking slowly but steadily. Dr. Wise said that all chances against him, and his opinion appeared to be that he could not survive the night. His collapsed condition continued steadily for several hours, with no signs of reaction. Death may result from internal hemorrhage or inflammation of the lungs.

Mr. Day was greatly distressed over the affair, although he did the shooting in self-defense. He was arrested by Marshal Godsey, but was released on his own recognizance. Mr. Day is a resident of Maytown, Morgan county, and is by all regarded as a faithful officer and good citizen. Onell received the last rites of the Catholic church from Father Kehoe, of the Cathedral. He also made a statement to Mr. Charles Gray, but the latter, under instructions from the United States District Attorney, withholds it for the present.

Onell was indicted at the May term of court in 1884 for passing a counterfeit Third National Bank of Cincinnati note on Jas. Worthington, of Covington. It was for $10. He has been in jail since. His attorney has been M. M. Kary, of Cincinnati. The indictment against him disappeared at the last term of court, just after the grand jury had adjourned, under circumstances that led to the belief that it was stolen. He was again indicted at the present term. He is from Detroit, and his real name is Cummings.

Breen's Liniment removes knots and all enlargements on horses or other stock. No cure pay. Sold by J. T. & F. DAY, Hazel Green, D. D. LANDSAW, Stillwater, CASBIDY & ROBINSON, Campton.

WOLFE COUNTY.

LACY CREEK, Dec. 12.—The school at this place, under the magnificent guidance of Prof. J. Z. Hane, of Upper Grassy, will terminate December 30th with an entertainment. As there are a large number of pupils in attendance, who are progressing rapidly, a nice time is anticipated. Mr. Hane has faithfully done his duty in trying to promote the interests of all who have been entrusted to his care for the past five months, and will be missed when he leaves here. May success crown all his efforts wherever he be.

Say, Mr. "Longfellow," I am not dead nor married, either, as well as you are. My mind has been so firmly fixed upon the fact that I often forget myself, and sink into a state of unconsciousness, only to be resuscitated when I am called one to say yes when I ask her to marry me.

Look here, Mr. "Avis," I don't want you to ship a car load of the "daisies" to Oregon until the home demand is supplied. I don't care if girls are as scarce as hen's teeth in Oregon, you must always remember that "charity begins at home."

Judge G. W. Carson, John D. Rose and C. M. Fallon were appointed commissioners to divide the farm of Rebecca Combs, of Stillwater, which they have been doing to the best of their ability.

There will be several weddings in this vicinity soon if the boys care to anybody to have them. We think there is a pretty good showing for one old widower just now.

G. W. Miller, our blacksmith, will move to Booneville in a short time. He will be missed, as he is a first-class smith.

C. J. Little, of Jackson, passed through here last week en route home from Richmond, Ky., where he had been on business. He sold here a fine horse and a pair of mules.

On the 10th, a good day's work and an excellent dinner consumed the time. James H. and A. S. Nickell, of Red River, are attending school at this place.

"On the Wing," are you dead, has your cow gone dry or what are you pointing about that you do not write.

Dr. Wiley Steele, of Campton, called to see a little son of A. H. Lacy, that is very ill with fever.

S. S. Combs and family, of Campton, paid as a flying visit last week, which was very acceptable.

Moore B. Lacy, of Upper Grassy, was in his neighborly Thursday on business. Died—December 9th, infant child of Hoy Children.

J. M. Rose will go to Lane today on business.

Wanted—500 Horses, Shod with steel shoes. They will not wear out. Best shoe made, long as iron. Sold in Hazel Green by F. McGuire. The trade supplied by CHILES, THOMPSON & CO., Mt. Sterling, Ky.

HAZEL GREEN ACADEMY.

The new high school building now near completion in this town, is one of the finest, if not the finest in Eastern Kentucky. It is 62 feet long, 30 feet wide and 28 feet high from the foundation to the roof plates, and will have a total height of 32 feet. The lower floor, 62x30 feet, has a raised stage 12x25 feet in the rear end, and the main part will seat an audience of 500, thus making an admirable place to hold concerts, theatrical entertainments, conventions, &c. On the lower floor there are also cloak and music rooms, 8x10 and 10x12 respectively. The upper story is divided into three rooms; the main school-room being 25x30 feet, a recitation room 12x25 feet, a class room 12x16 feet. The lower story has 10 windows for light and ventilation, and the upper apartments contain 13 windows. The entire building, above and below, will be ceiled. Mr. Joseph Clark, who has charge of the work, thinks it will be one of the most substantial buildings in Eastern Kentucky, and that it will cost, when completed, $5,500. This building is to be completed by January 1st, or sufficient of it to accommodate 300 students, and on January 4th will be occupied by students attending the Hazel Green Academy.

The Board of Directors of this institution have recently issued a large number of beautifully executed circulars (printed at this office) which they are sending out in every direction. They deserve great praise for the enterprising way they have displayed and are now using in furthering the interests of education in Eastern Kentucky, and THE HERALD hopes to see Hazel Green Academy not alone the foremost school in this section, but the finest educational institution east of Lexington. The principal, Prof. N. B. Hays, in the two years past has proved his ability and his devotion to the cause, with time and talents to the development of the minds of all who may be so fortunate as to attend this institution. The Board of Directors, J. T. Day, John D. Rose and H. O. Mize, are too well known over this wide land to need eulogium from us. It is sufficient to say that they have entered into this enterprise almost solely for the purpose of advancing the interest of our section, and should receive every encouragement. For particulars, see circulars, or address the principal, Prof. N. B. Hays.

The New Livery Stable.

One by one the old fossils and mossbacks of Hazel Green are relegated to seats of silence in the history of the town, while an equal number of spirited, liberal, energetic youngsters walk up and take rank in the foreground of enterprise and prosperity. Six months since the idea of building a livery stable in Hazel Green would have been looked at; now it is accepted as a matter of necessity. Those who were wont to frown upon enterprises now see that a livery stable will fill a long felt want in this community, and wonder that none were shrewd enough to see the necessity for one until the foresight of W. T. Day, Thomas Gray and Franklin Pieratt prompted them to build one. Their stable will be on Broadway, between Main and State streets, and the building will be 27x62 feet. The ground floor will consist of an office, crib and 16 commodious stalls, while the upper floor is capable of holding 10 tons of hay, &c. This building will have a sufficient number of horses and vehicles to accommodate the traveling public, and propose to keep everything in first-class order. To economize they propose feeding their stock, feeding, housing, &c., but people who know these things, say they are too foolish and dandified in dress to stand such work long. However, we shall see what we will do for them. They will throw our old shoe after them and hang up a horse-shoe for their success.

She Got 'Em at Mrs. Kate O. Clark's Bazaar of Fashion.

"Are you going down to Mt. Sterling next Monday, Jim?"

"Yes, I sure am. You see I am compelled to go."

"Why, you ain't goin' to take down cattle?"

"No, Sally Ann, she saw Mrs. Jones the other day, all buckled with a fine bonnet, ribbons, &c., and she's found out through THE HERALD that the finery came from Mrs. Kate O. Clark's Bazaar of Fashion, and so I've got to go to get some of them."

"But, hold on, Jim. How do they sell them things?"

"Why, Mrs. Jones, she only spent $5, and besides the prettiest bonnet you ever saw, she had a room full of children's finery."

"That settles it Jim; I'm goin' too, and 'pon me honor if I don't get some of Mrs. Clark's Bazaar and fix Polly Ann up better than Mrs. Jones, and I'll meet you Sunday mornin'."

"All right, Bob, we'll go together."

Thus they parted, and THE HERALD man, who had been an eager listener, turned from the scene with the silent soliloquy:

"Mrs. Kate O. Clark, of Mt. Sterling, was sharp enough to use 'local lines' in THE HERALD, and is now getting nearly all the mountain trade. Every one has come to know the ladylike Mrs. Kate O. Clark, and her Bazaar of Fashion."

Needed Legislation.

[Bentleyville Enterprise.]

Any one who is at all familiar with the sales of real estate, made either under judicial decree or court execution, has not failed to observe how frequently large and valuable landed interest are sacrificed because of present inefficient legal means provided for advertising such sales, which, in many cases, works a great hardship on the unfortunate debtor by the sacrifice of his property at inadequate prices. This should be remedied. And, in order to give general publicity to all such sales and to induce bidders to attend, thus insuring something like a fair value for lands sold, such sales should be advertised in the newspapers published in the counties where the lands are sold. If no paper is published in the county, then in that one having the largest circulation in the county. The educational cost of this advertising will in most cases, if not in every case, be enhanced to the debtor by the increased price for which the lands will be sold. We do suggest that some legislation be passed, but because we see that something must be done to give relief to an unfortunate class of debtors who are powerless to help themselves without some such legislation as is here suggested.

Try, Try Again.

Johnson Williams, who was tried at the July term of our circuit court for stealing a coat from J. Taylor & F. (Pugh) Day, of this place, was sent to jail for 30 days. At the end of the day he was discharged from the jail, procured a pole, and with it reached through a broken window at the store of D. Crockett Williams in Campton and took the coat home. He apparently finds it easier to live in the jail without work than to take chances on earning a living honestly outside. Cases like this call for the whipping post in the very latest tones.

A postal from J. William Lusk, dated Cincinnati, states that he has bought him a new suit of clothes and looks pretty nice. He will take in Buffalo, Syracuse and New York City before his return. He shipped two car loads of walnut lumber to New York.

J. Newton Brown, of this place, was kicked by a mule while on his way to work, and was much surprised but not badly hurt.

Miss Clara D. Pieratt, of Keel, who has been visiting in town for a week, returned home Saturday.

FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Mr. W. L. Drake, the subject of the above sketch, with the Evening Chronicle, St. Louis, Mo., in answer to the inquiry of a reporter, said: "For seven years I had been ailing with catarrh, and during that time have been treated by six eminent physicians, without success. Some doctors told me I had consumption. For the past three years I had a continual discharge of mucous droppings in the throat, a cough and pain across my forehead. At that time I was lost of memory, voice, appetite, roaring in the ears, and a general feeling of wretchedness. About five months ago I consulted Dr. Turner. To-day I am as well as ever; have gained twenty pounds, and don't detect a trace of my old trouble. Yes, sir, I would be pleased to answer, by letter, any person suffering from that dread disease."

Louis Turner, M. D., has offices at 819 Washington av., St. Louis, Mo., and has, in private and hospital practice of over thirty years, treated with wonderful success all curable cases.
